Training Game "Effective Interaction with Others"

Every day, we interact with others and address simple and crucial questions, but how can we do this most effectively while considering everyone's interests? To find the answer, a game-quest on this topic was organized for teenagers. Effective interaction yields valuable results, along with support and pleasant communication as a bonus.

The entire process unfolded in a playful format. Sincere emotions, numerous smiles, and excellent interaction among teenagers were observed. Upon completing the game-quest, each participant discovered their strengths and areas for growth. We are proud of all the participants!

Motanka Doll-Making Workshop

A doll-motanka is not just a toy but a traditional family talisman with deep significance. The secrets of its creation were passed down through generations, believed to possess powerful energy and safeguard every family member. Preserving ancient Ukrainian traditions and teaching others about them is crucial, making such workshops highly valuable.

Games of the World Nations

An engaging activity titled "Games of the World Nations" was organized for teenagers. Bright and unique team mini-games like "Cornhole," "Elastic," "Quad-Elastic," and more were played. It was a wonderful opportunity to have fun together in a nice company.

Musical Event "Family Jam"

At Family Jam, children had the chance to feel like real musicians, testing their skills on various musical instruments. This time, they reproduced sounds of nature. It was not just recreational but also a valuable way to release accumulated emotions, express oneself through music, discover new passions, and foster personal growth and development through musical creativity.

Time Management Training

The Kids of Ukraine team participated in a time management training session for personal and professional development. Valuable tools and strategies were acquired during the online training to better organize time and achieve goals more effectively. These skills will not only aid in learning and development but also become valuable assets in the future.

Animation Workshop

Who didn't fantasize and dream of bringing fantasies to life in childhood? While it's impossible to fully recreate the imaginary world, to some extent, it can become a reality, for instance, during an animation workshop creating a cartoon. It all began with script development: the beginning, plot development, climax, and a happy ending. Participants then meticulously crafted each character from clay and concluded with filming. The most magical moment was when the created characters came to life on the screen, illustrating that fantasies can become reality – one just needs a strong desire.

Park Quest

"SviTy" participants embarked on a park quest, dividing into two teams, completing tasks to meet new people, then to enhance communicative skills: taking photos with challenges like capturing a person in white sneakers or glasses, capturing people holding hands, and more. Subsequently, they had to form a phrase from letters, decipher the location of the next task, find treasures in the form of treats using a compass and secret marks left by the hosts. It was a fantastic day!

Color Relay

The creative event "Color Relay" was fun and engaging. Each participant began their painting, but after 5 minutes of work, passed it around the table to their neighbor, receiving a different painting from the opposite side of the table to continue working on "others'" artworks. Thus, each painting was created by everyone present in turn. The result was intriguing, and the process was joyful!

Entertainment Center Visit

Finally, a visit to an entertainment center was made, where children started with a game of "tag" at the entrance. The lively atmosphere and enthusiasm for the game prompted children to scatter across the entire play area – some bounced on trampolines, others hung upside down on ropes, and some slid down slides into pools of colorful balls. Teenagers couldn't tear themselves away from the active games and were extremely happy to spend time together.

Training on "Me and My Abilities"

In Zhytomyr, a creative training session on "Me and My Abilities" was conducted for teenagers. Discussions on abilities were held, and skills were showcased through drawing, playing instruments, and sculpting with clay. The training provided participants with an understanding that each of us is talented and unique, emphasizing the importance of expressing willingness, revealing uniqueness, and not fearing self-expression.

Art Therapy "Emotions"

A vibrant therapeutic session titled "Emotions" was conducted, where teenagers unleashed emotions using paint. Participants were given paints, with each color reflecting an internal state. Teenagers shared the emotions they felt during the process, with everyone displaying a positive and joyful mood. This activity helped teenagers feel the interaction between emotions and creativity, learn ways to manage their feelings, and explore emotional control methods.
